By Dr Dupere on Palliative Care

Dr. Dupere became Canada's first accredited palliative medicine specialist in 2000 and has since taught and presented extensively on the topic. He is an associate professor of medicine at Dalhousie University and Head, Division of Palliative Medicine at the QEII Health Sciences Centre.

Tuesday November 27th

3-4pm Village Hall

(Windsor Elms Village 174 Dyke Rd, Falmouth)

"Palliative medicine specialists focus on providing excellent care and support to adults of all ages at what is often the most difficult and vulnerable time in a patient's life. Without a rapidly ageing population, palliative medicine is becoming increasingly important within medicine"

– Dr David Dupere
